

WOJCIECH MAJEWSKI

Prof. Majewski graduated from the Faculty of Hydraulic Engineering at Gdańsk University of Technology. Completed postgraduate studies at the University of Glasgow and obtained MSc in civil engineering. He obtained doctor degree and doctor habilitated and in 1990 was awarded title of professor. He specializes in water resource management and hydraulic engineering. At present, is an employee in the Institute of Meteorology and Water Management – NRI, Warsaw and the vice chairman of the Committee on Water Resource Management of the Polish Academy of Sciences. He has directed many important national and international projects in the field of hydraulic engineering. Participated in many conferences in Poland and abroad. He has also been an reviewer of many doctoral and habilitation theses. He also promoted many engineers and doctors in the field of hydraulic and environmental engineering. Is the author of over 350 Polish and English publications in the field of water resources management and engineering. A respected engineering and scientific authority.